Garment Care

Precision garments are made to the highest standards and subject to strict quality control procedures.
However any sporting garment may suffer discolouring or incomplete stain removal.

Following a few simple rules will help your kit to go on looking its best. Staining will vary considerably depending on origin and treatment but discolouration can be reduced by soaking or washing the garment as soon as possible after use, using at least the same volume of water as the garment to be treated.

Always follow manufacturers' instructions when using powder or liquid detergents, especially those intended to tackle heavy staining, and avoid products containing bleach.

Precision cannot accept liability for any damage resulting from any use other than that for which the garment was designed or from decorative additions (such as numbers motifs etc.) other than those supplied by Precision.

In the case of Precision garments that already have decorations and trims, please pay particular attention to washing and ironing instructions as these may become unstable at higher temperatures. However, modern techniques ensure that these decorations should give excellent service and retain their looks if not treated to temperatures higher than 70°C.

Precision is unable to advise on the application of any decorative additions.

Precision reserve the right to amend product design and specification without prior notice. Colours shown are as accurate as possible given the constraints of the printing process.

Disclaimer: Due to being sold as separates slight colour differences can occur in all textiles.
